

JOB OPPORTUNITY

GIS ANALYST

WITH

COURAGE SERVICES

Courage Services is a small Arlington, Virginia based company that specializes in archival geographic and cultural research. The company has several multi-year government contracts supporting the U.S. Intelligence Community and is in need of a part time and/or full time Geospatial Analyst. Applicants should be proficient using ArcGIS 9.1 to create and edit geodatabases, georeference softcopy maps and digitize layers of information off of archival maps and documents.

The ideal candidate would be an entry-level or mid-level analyst looking for an exciting opportunity to grow with a small company and gain immediate work experience. This would also be an ideal opportunity for a GIS analysts applying for jobs with the federal government that are awaiting background checks for security clearances.

Courage Services strives to find innovative solutions to current intelligence problems, encourages creativity, and allows flexible work schedules. The company offers very competitive salaries based on expertise and experience. Interested applicants should forward their resumes and applicable work/coursework experience to the email address below.

Contact:
Tom Flint
Director of Research
Courage Services, LLC
tom_flint@courageservices.com