

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON DC

GW News Center
Office of University Relations
www.GWNewsCenter.org

GW In the News November 16 – 30, 2007

Law.com (11/16) posted a Legal Times article announcing that GW now offers a master's degree in law firm management.

The Washington Post (11/17) noted GW in an article regarding popular fashions at U.S. colleges.

Media.www.loyolamaroon.com (11/16) mentioned GW as having the highest tuition rate in the nation.

Beta.silobreaker.com (11/17) noted GW for its research with National Geographic's Center for Sustainable Destinations (CSD) surveying conditions on 111 selected islands and archipelagos in its fourth annual Destination Scorecard survey.

Thestar.com (11/17) noted GW in an article regarding increasing security at shopping malls.

Travelvideo.tv (11/21) mentioned GW's School of Hospitality regarding its accreditation of tourism industry certifications in Jordan.

Pokernews.com (11/21) noted GW's chapter of Global Poker Strategic Thinking Society.

Calibre.mworld.com (11/23) noted GW's use of ActiveAccess as a campus security emergency notification system.

Msnbc.msn.com (11/25) noted GW's Democracy in Action Web site.

The New York Times (11/26) noted GW Law School in an article regarding judges' habits of doling out leftover class-action settlement money.

Limaohio.com (11/25) noted GW's Battleground Poll in an article regarding Americans' frustration with politics.

The Washington Times (11/27) noted GW's research on HIV/AIDS in D.C. in an article regarding a study outlining AIDS rates in the district.

Southcoasttoday.com (11/28) noted a GW study in an article regarding President Bush's S-CHIP veto.

Tribstar.com (11/30) noted GW's Campaign Finance Institute regarding a behavioral health system that may have violated federal law by making political contributions.

Hossein Askari, Iran professor of international business, wrote an article posted on antiwar.com (11/28) titled, "Oil Costs More Than You Think."

John Banzhaf, professor of law, wrote an opinion in The Washington Post (11/27) regarding ways to make teen driving safer.

Nathan Brown, director of the Institute for Middle East Studies and professor of political science and international affairs, was quoted in the Baltimore Sun (11/29) regarding the outcome of the Annapolis peace conference.

Eric Cline, chair of the department of classical & Semitic language & literature and associate professor of classics, was quoted on yubanet.com (11/21) regarding the Tel Aviv University-directed archeological site at Tel Megiddo.

Wayne Cohen, part-time faculty, was quoted in The Washington Post (11/16) regarding the government's case against Barry Bonds.

Michael Cornfield, associate research professor, Institute for Politics, Democracy, and the Internet, was quoted on csmonitor.com (11/30) regarding the GOP YouTube debates.

Amitai Etzioni, University Professor and professor of international affairs, wrote an article posted on huffingtonpost.com (11/26) regarding the Middle East peace talks in Annapolis, Maryland.

Brian Gawne, professor of naval sciences, was shown in a photo posted on gazette.net (11/19) inspecting a Langanore High School senior during the Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps annual inspection.

Beverly Caffee Glenn, senior research staff scientist, was quoted in The Washington Post (11/18) regarding a provision of the No Child Left Behind Act requiring states to identify "persistently dangerous schools."

Stephen Hess, distinguished research professor of media and public affairs, was quoted in The Boston Globe (11/26) regarding a one-day Mideast summit in Annapolis, Md.

Peter Hotez, chair of the department of microbiology and professor of microbiology and tropical medicine, was quoted in the Chicago Tribune (11/27) regarding a new online medical journal devoted to neglected tropical diseases.

Karl Inderfurth, John O. Rankin professor of the practice of international affairs, co-wrote an op-ed in The Boston Globe (11/24) proposing a new US-India nuclear partnership.

Orin Kerr, associate professor of law, was noted on lawprofessors.typepad.com (11/16) on a list of “Most cited CrimProfs.” Slate.com (11/26) also noted Kerr.

Peter Kornbluh, senior analyst, National Security Archive, was noted on mathaba.net (11/16) regarding his attendance at a public hearing examining the White House’s protection of Luis Posada Carriles.

Steven Knapp, president of the university, was noted in the Baltimore Sun (11/25) in an article regarding Kristina Johnson’s succession of him as provost of The Johns Hopkins University.

John Logsdon, research professor of political science and international affairs, was quoted on startribune.com (11/24) regarding China’s space program.

Marc Lynch, associate professor of political science and international affairs, was quoted on uruknet.info (11/20) regarding the effects of Petraeus’ strategy of reducing violence by making deals with dominant local powers.

Cynthia McClintock, professor of political science and international affairs, was quoted in the Chicago Tribune (11/27) regarding a dispute between Hugo Chavez and Colombian President Alvaro Uribe.

Joseph McKeown, women’s basketball coach, was noted on gazette.net (11/29) regarding the potential of Antelia Parrish.

David Michaels, research professor of environmental occupational health, was quoted on infozine.com (11/23) regarding harmful chemicals in microwave popcorn.

James Miller, chair of the department of American studies and professor of English and of American studies, reviewed David A. Nichols’ A Matter of Justice. The review appeared in The Boston Globe (11/21).

Celeste Monforton, research associate, was quoted on hawaiireporter.com (11/21) regarding the Occupational Safety and Health Administration’s (OSHA) finalization of a worker safety rule.

Faye Moskowitz, professor of English, was quoted in the Washington City Paper (11/28) regarding Richard Peabody’s anthology series of female D.C. writers.

Michael Olding, chief, division of plastic surgery and associate professor of surgery, was quoted on magentanews.com (11/27) regarding the death of Kanye West’s mother.

Susan Phillips, dean, school of business and professor of finance, was noted on huffingtonpost.com (11/21) for being appointed as a member of a board that will oversee the editorial independence of the Wall Street Journal.

Marsha Regenstein, assistant research professor of health policy, was quoted on theconservativevoice.com (11/26) regarding the possible closing of Atlanta's only public hospital.

Leo Ribuffo, professor of history, was quoted in The Washington Examiner (11/24) regarding the 3-day U.S.-sponsored peace conference held in Annapolis, Md.

Brian Richmond, associate professor of anthropology, co-wrote a research article posted on sciencemag.org (11/16) regarding the origins of human bipedalism.

Liesl Riddle, assistant professor of international business and international affairs, was quoted on phillyburbs.com (11/28) regarding Kurdistan.

Jeffrey Rosen, professor of law, was quoted on washingtonpost.com (11/16) regarding surveillance in an article regarding how lack of anonymity is changing our culture.

Marie Rudolph, director federal government relations, was quoted in The Washington Post (11/29) regarding the D.C. Bowl Commission.

Stephen Saltzburg, director of the litigation and dispute resolution program and Wallace and Beverley Woodbury University Professor of Law, was noted on lawprofessors.typepad.com (11/16) on a list of "Most cited CrimProfs." Mapinc.org (11/16) posted an article quoting him regarding the discrepancies between prison sentences for people using crack cocaine as opposed to cocaine in powder form.

Steven Schooner, senior associate dean for academic affairs in the law school and associate professor of law, was quoted on govexec.com (11/20) regarding the General Service Administration's Alliant contract.

David Shambaugh, professor of political science and international affairs, wrote an article posted on the International Herald Tribune (11/26) regarding strains in the relationship between Europe and China. Earthtimes.org (11/28) quoted him regarding a new report backed by the British Foreign Office finding that the European Union and China could have a major impact on global climate change.

John Sides, assistant professor of political science, was quoted on newsday.com (11/17) regarding Hillary Rodham Clinton's recent Las Vegas debate.

Daniel Solove, associate professor of law, was quoted on wired.com (11/21) regarding internet shaming. He was a guest on npr.org (11/27) regarding vigilante-style justice in the digital age and usatoday.com (11/26) quoted him regarding widgets.

Richard Tollo, associate professor of geosciences, was quoted in calibre.mworld.com (11/16) regarding his being given the award of state Professor of the Year by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Jonathan Turley, J.B. and Maurice C. Shapiro Professor of Public Service Law, was quoted on news.yahoo.com (11/28) regarding Sen. Trent Lott's resignation.

Christopher Yukins, associate professor of government contracts law, was quoted on govpro.com (11/27) regarding a Federal Acquisition Regulation Amendment (FAR).