

Robert P. Stoker, Associate Professor: BA, Ohio State University; MA, PhD (Political Science), University of Maryland, College Park. His academic specialization in political science is public policy, including methods of policy analysis, program evaluation, and implementation analysis. His research focus is social policy. He published a book on implementation analysis entitled Reluctant Partners: Implementing Federal Policy and articles in such journals as Journal of Urban Affairs, Policy Studies Journal, Policy Studies Review, Public Administration Review, and Social Sciences Quarterly. He is currently completing a book on low wage work and welfare policy.